Dear Davinder:

The privilege of working with someone whose professional and spiritual commitments are beyond reproach is seldom seen in our busy world, but having worked with you since 1987 has been one of the greatest privileges of my professional career. Your extensive knowledge about fiscal management is without compare, but more importantly, your understanding of how management and fiscal control must be integrated is unique in the association business. You have also brought enthusiasm and a willingness to reach beyond your normal functions and participate in every activity of NPCA that I have asked you to serve in, including membership, management decisions, and other activities. In particular I want to note that you have been singularly responsible for the recognition and credibility that NPCA has gained through our outstanding on-line services. I have seldom, if ever, had the opportunity to work with an individual with such skills. I know that we will both recall that our successes at NPCA, which are innumerable, were largely due to the team relationship that we achieved.

Best regards,
